

Scotland 2017

Once again we will be leading a tour of Scotland to enjoy some of the country's best biking roads.

This year's tour will be a full week leaving on Saturday the 12th August and returning on Saturday 19th August. There is no fixed route as I usually make it up as we go depending on the weather condition and how we are doing time wise but this is a brief idea of the planned route.

We will leave early Saturday and head up through Shropshire before joining the M6 for approximately 50 miles. We then take the back roads of Lancashire and Cumbria before crossing the border and doing a loop into Moffat for the first night.

Sunday.

We leave Moffat and head up for our first night in Fort William.

Monday.

Today is a loop out of Fort William possibly to Mallaig and Strontian or Oban and Crinan before heading back for a second night in Fort William Tuesday.

We head up via Glen Sheil and possibly Applecross to Ullapool.

Wednesday.

Today is a trip up to the far north before heading back for a second night in Ullapool.

Thursday.

We head down through the Cairngorms to Pitlochry.

Friday.

Today we do a loop out of Pitlochry, possibly taking in Rannoch moor, Glen Coe and Dalwhinnie pass before heading back for our second night in Pitlochry

Saturday

We head over the Forth Bridge and into Moffat for lunch, then take the back roads to the border before taking the motorway home.

The cost for the 7 night's bed and breakfast will be approximately £325.00 per person based on sharing a twin or double room. It will be a bit more for a single room.

This is a riding holiday we will cover approx 2000 miles in the 8 days and is only suitable for more experienced riders.

To keep the group to a manageable size only a limited number of places are available. Any one that is interested can you let me know ASAP. Either by email ashcroftbs@yahoo.co.uk or on 07586 291167
